

NORSACA
quality of life for people with autism

Media Release 24th July - For Immediate Release

Autism Charity Supported by Fundraising Party

Tugby resident, Jane Shears organised a party at her home to raise £605 for autism charity NORSACA recently.

The charity, which is celebrating its 40th anniversary this year, works with adults and children affected by autism from across the East Midlands. Jane's son, Adam attends Sutherland House School, a specialist school for pupils with autism in Nottingham, which is run by NORSACA.

Jane said: "We wanted to support NORSACA as it celebrated its 40th birthday as my son, Adam is a pupil at Sutherland House School. The school has helped Adam to cope with a world he doesn't understand and given him life skills which have benefited him enormously. He will be leaving the school soon but Adam is certainly now well equipped to face his future. I cannot thank the highly dedicated and hugely professional staff enough. It was wonderful to be able to bring together so many family and friends to help raise funds for NORSACA's work".

Note to Editors:

NORSACA (Nottingham Regional Society for Adults and Children with Autism) is a registered charity (No. 517954) and a company limited by guarantee (No. 2053860). The Society was started on the initiative of a group of parents in 1968 and today is still led by the parents and friends of people with autism.

Autism is a complex, life-long disability which affects the development of communication, social and life skills.
